Dear Dr. Gurajala:

A manuscript titled Spectral analysis approach for assessing accuracy of a low-cost air quality sensor network data (ee-2023-00071a) has been submitted by Suresh Dhaniyala to ACS ES&T Engineering.

Because you are listed as a co-author for this manuscript, we have created an ACS Paragon Plus profile for you. To access and claim your profile, you will need to log in with an ACS ID. You may create or associate an existing ACS ID by selecting this link:

<http://acsparagonplus.acs.org/psweb/reviewer?securetoken=06af710f9ca34b2faf0117eb10b2f2d2>

Claiming your profile in ACS Paragon Plus grants you access to personalized features in the ACS Publishing Center (<https://publish.acs.org>), including the ability to track the status and outcome of manuscripts you've authored or reviewed for ACS journals.

Additionally, we encourage you to associate an ORCID iD with your profile. Your ORCID iD will be published alongside your name should your manuscript be accepted. You may create a new ORCID iD or associate an existing one using links found in the Email/Name section of your ACS Paragon Plus profile. Learn more about the benefits of ORCID at <http://www.orcid.org>.

For help, please contact the ACS Help Desk at support@services.acs.org.

Sincerely,
